

Assessor compensation for each assignment is paid according to the agreed upon hourly rate set forth in the contract and is capped by a Do Not Exceed Maximum. GBI will notify the assessor of the maximum allowed compensation when the project is first offered, and assessors have the option to accept or decline any assignment. In addition, all eligible travel expenses are reimbursed by GBI in accordance with the GBI Expense Reimbursement Policy.

Certified GGAs must adhere to the Conflict of Interest guidelines that exist to protect the objectivity and integrity of the Green Globes system and ensure that third-party assessors have no incentives to personally influence a building's rating. Despite the fact that all third-party assessments are subject to a quality audit, review, and approval by a senior Assessor, conflict of interest limitations are still an integral component of credible third-party assessments.

The following is an outline of the GGA program goals and objectives:

- Explain the importance of Green Buildings
- Describe the mission of Green Building Initiative and the history of Green Globes
- Recall the features that make the Green Globes assessment and certification system unique
- Identify the Green Globes programs
- Describe the Green Globes Continuum
- List and explain the benefits of using Green Globes
- Understand your role as a sustainability expert and GGA
- Define the assessment process and differences between programs
- List the steps required to complete certification